

Office of the Director of Telecommunications Regulation

Regulator Etain Doyle invites applications for the allocation of directory information access codes

Preparation for full telecommunications liberalisation, on December 1 next, advanced a stage further this week with the invitation from the Director of Telecommunications Regulation, Etain Doyle, for applications for directory information access codes, in order to facilitate additional competition in the telecoms industry.

The allocation of the new directory information access codes will result in a caller having the opportunity to choose between directory information services, knowing that their chosen directory information service provider will be able to provide their required number, no matter what network it operates on.

ENDS

19/11/98